

Call for Participation

Workshop with James Lenman: The Possibility of Moral Community

We are happy to announce a one-day workshop on moral philosophy which will take place at the University of Konstanz on Friday, 21 July 2017.

The workshop will focus on themes from Lenman's new book in the making (working title: "The Possibility of Moral Community"). We will read and discuss previously unpublished work that addresses normative and moral issues from an expressivist or Humean angle (namely the author's). Texts will be circulated electronically among all registered participants in early July. We will have three sessions throughout the day, one in the morning and two in the afternoon.

All interested philosophers (graduate students and "above") are welcome. There are no participation fees. Unfortunately, we will not be able to compensate travel and accommodation costs. We will, however, gladly help you with finding accommodation (which is not always easy at a sunny lake during July).

If you are interested, please send an email including your institutional affiliation to stefan.fischer@uni-konstanz.de. The necessary details (precise location, session times, etc.) will be provided in due time after registration.

In short:

When: Friday, 21 July 2017, 10am–18pm

Where: University of Konstanz

Organizer: Stefan Fischer (stefan.fischer@uni-konstanz.de)

For further information, please follow these links:

Jimmy Lenman

Jacob Rosenthal \(Hosting Department Chair\)

Stefan Fischer

This workshop is funded by the Zukunftskolleg of the University of Konstanz

